

Judaic Studies at Concordia

Established more than 30 years ago and housed within the Department of Religion at Concordia University in downtown Montreal, Judaic Studies unites resources and methodologies of the fields of religious studies, history, philosophy and literature to study the historical and contemporary development of Judaism and the Jewish people. The program brings together the expertise of five full-time faculty members, each teaching and researching varied aspects of the field.

In addition to being located in a city that possesses a large and vibrant Jewish community as well as significant library and archival resources, Judaic Studies is associated with the Concordia University Institute for Canadian Jewish Studies, dedicated to the study of the Canadian Jewish experience. All of this comes together to provide a strong and solid foundation for the study of Judaic Studies.

Concordia's Programs in Judaic Studies

Undergraduate

Honours in Judaic Studies
Major in Judaic Studies
Minor in Judaic Studies

Graduate

Master's of/Magisteriate in Arts in Judaic Studies
Doctor of/Doctorate in Philosophy in Religion
(Judaic Studies concentration)

For further information on Judaic Studies at Concordia, please call:
514-848-2424, ext. 2065
or fax: 514-848-4541
or e-mail: robinso@alcor.concordia.ca <http://religion.concordia.ca/>

www.concordia.ca